

ARE CHECKING UP ALL CITY ACCOUNTS

J. S. Mare and D. Callahan of St. Louis Auditing
Municipal Books.

FROM 1908 TO DATE

Improvement in System of Bookkeeping May Result From Work.

The work of auditing the books for the city was begun this morning by J. S. Mare and D. Callahan of the Audit and Bond Company of St. Louis. A complete audit of all the books of every city official will be made.

The work includes, according to Mr. Mare, a thorough investigation of all entries and will reveal any irregularities or errors that have been made. All accounts are checked up and each item is examined to see that no mistake has been made. The system of bookkeeping in each department will also be examined to find wherein it may be improved and suggestions as to more economical methods offered. Mr. Mare and Mr. Callahan say they cannot tell until further work has been done what lines of investigation may be necessary. This depends entirely upon the condition of the books. The investigation will include the records from 1908 up to the present time.

The council decided about two weeks ago to have the books audited hoping that a more efficient system of bookkeeping might be installed. It was shown by letters from other cities that changes in the system of keeping books introduced after an audit had been made were saving the cities several hundred dollars annually.

KOREA A CHRISTIAN NATION

E. M. C. A. Worker Tells of Conditions There Now.

"Korea and Christianity" was discussed at the Methodist Church last night by the Rev. Charles G. Hounshell, a missionary from Seoul, Korea. Mr. Hounshell is now traveling secretary of the Students Volunteer Movement, and while in the United States is visiting many of the colleges and universities, making appeals to the students to volunteer for the foreign service. He was closely connected with the opening up of Korea as a mission field and in the establishing of missions and mission schools there. Mr. Hounshell said in part:

"The future of Korea is not of an economic or political nature. Her mines and other resources are about exhausted and she is ruled by other hands. There is a future for Korea as an object lesson to the world as a non-Christian nation made into a Christian nation. Today there are 202,710 natives enrolled as members of the different Christian churches who have established missions there."

THEY MAKE JELLY AT M. U.

Horticultural Department Uses Fruit
That Cannot Be Sold.

Now the University is making jelly—quite as good jelly as mother used to make, according to experimenters on the State Farm. The department of horticulture in this way is utilizing that part of the apple crop which, though sound, cannot be disposed of in the form of marketable, barreled apples.

Last Tuesday the department put up 196 pints of jelly from 33 gallons of apple juice. Ten bushels of apples were used.

The process here is still more or less in the experimental stage, as far as the practicability of the operation is concerned, but the results have been excellent. The apples are ground up and then the juice and pomace—the substance of the apples—are boiled for 40 minutes. At the first attempt only the apple juice, or cider, was used, but it was found that this would not be satisfactory. J. R. Howard, foreman of the horticultural grounds, says this is because the juice when squeezed out contains very little pectin.

"It is the pectin which causes the product to jelly," he said, "and it seems that it is necessary to boil the juice with the ground apples before the pectin can be gotten into the mixture. Bulletins tell us to use the apple-cider, but we have got very poor results where only the juice was used without boiling it with the pomace." Pectin is found in fruit juices. It changes into pectic acid and forms the juice into a solid.

Jonathan apples have been used to make the jelly. Mr. Howard thinks that the juice from crab-apples would jelly without boiling with the pomace.

ACCUSED OF AIDING VOTERS TOO MUCH

Circuit Court Hears Charges Against Sturgeon Election Judge.

WHAT WITNESSES SAID

But No One Called Mr.
Stewart's Attention to Any Violation.

Thomas J. Stewart is in the Circuit Court today defending himself against charges of helping voters make out their ballots while he was a judge of election at the Democratic primary election in August at Sturgeon.

The prosecution claims that he was always ready to help those voters who could not read extra well, those who had "forgotten their glasses" and everyone who needed some help in making out his ballot. It is held, too, that the defendant went into the booths to assist in making out some voters' ballots, and this is illegal, it is alleged. One witness said he knew Mr. Stewart was not obeying the law when he went into the booths to help certain voters, but he neither called his attention to the violation nor said anything to the other election officials about it.

"Andy" Mathews testified that Stewart helped him make out his ballot because he did not understand all of it. He said that Stewart, when reading over the names, remarked that one candidate was a cripple. According to him the defendant also held the pencil and scratched the names. He was satisfied, however, that Stewart scratched the ticket as he wanted it.

Other men called said that the were confident Mr. Stewart marked the ballot as they ordered him. This case occupied the court's time the entire morning.

At the close of the state's evidence the prosecuting attorney dismissed the case. Court adjourned at noon to convene again tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Field says he will make them fight if he has to cut the squad to eleven men.

SAYS PHONE USERS GET MONEY'S WORTH

Frank Lathrop of Bell Company Says Rates Are Comparatively Low Here.

HEAVY LOCAL SERVICE

And Few Long Distant Tolls, He Adds—Conditions Influence Cost.

The people of Columbia are getting their money's worth from the Columbia Telephone Company, according to the statement of Frank Lathrop, district manager of the American Bell Telephone Company at Hannibal, Mo. Mr. Lathrop, who is in Columbia today, said this morning that the telephone rates here were lower in proportion to the amount of service than in the average city of this size in Missouri.

Mr. Lathrop's statement was made in answer to questions concerning the investigation of the telephone rates of Columbia started by the City Council.

"Your rates are lower and your service better than the average," said Mr. Lathrop. "I am quite sure that if the books were examined that it would be found that the company is not making more money than its service would warrant, if as much. If the council thinks that rates should be lowered, it should appoint a committee to examine the books and see just what the condition is."

"The telephone plant here is as good as any in the state, not excepting the plants in Kansas City and St. Louis," Mr. Lathrop continued. "It is really better than the Bell company has had in the surrounding cities of this size until very recently. Columbia has had a modern plant for a long time."

Mr. Lathrop said that the nature of the telephone business in any town depended to a very great extent on the natural conditions in that town. He explained the fact that the long distance business from here is comparatively small by the fact that Columbia is not near any large city and that the commerce from here is only moderate.

"You see Columbia is a college town and a social town," Mr. Lathrop said. "Such places have heavy local telephone service. A telephone man could tell that this town was a great user of local lines without ever seeing the company's books or hearing the representatives talk about it. The fact that it is a social and college town explains the great use of the telephone late at night."

Mr. Lathrop explained that the American Bell company had no connection with the Columbia company, except that the Bell lines ran into the Columbia company's switchboard and that the two companies divided the toll profits.

C. L. Harrison, Who Died September
14, Was on Panama Commission.

Charles Lewis Harrison, who died on September 14 in New York City, was a graduate of the School of Engineering at the University. Mr. Harrison was 55 years old and has lived in New York, where he has been a recognized authority in engineering for a long time.

It was while assistant chief engineer, having charge of the work in the East River tunnel of the Pennsylvania terminal, that Mr. Harrison's devotion to duty brought in the illness from which he died. The strain of the compressed air told on his heart. When the tunnel was finished he retired from active work and became a consulting engineer and a recognized arbitrator in matters of engineering disagreement.

Mr. Harrison's survey and recommendations were taken as the basis for much of the great work now going on at Panama. He was a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission. He had charge of the surveys of the Chicago Drainage Canal and in 1897 to 1899 he directed the surveys and examinations of the Niagara Ship Canal. Mr. Harrison was the recipient of the Thomas Fitch Rowland prize of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and was otherwise honored as a member of that society.

At the funeral services in New York at the "Little Church Around the Corner" more than two hundred of the most widely known men in American paid tribute to his memory. Mr. Harrison was buried in the yard of the Old Anxvasse Church in Callaway County, Mo.

BROADWAY SPEEDER TOO FAST FOR "COPS"

Witnesses Say Man From City Went 60 Miles an Hour

CAR WAS STRIPPED

Arrested At His Brother's Home Near Centralia by Columbia Police.

Charged with burning a long black streak down Broadway, A. F. Stephens, an automobile tourist, is under bond to appear in the Columbia police court October 29. The police say he went so fast that by the time a policeman could walk from the sidewalk to the middle of the street he was four blocks away.

Other witnesses affirm that he says he wasn't traveling at all; that he could get eight miles out of that engine without any trouble.

At any rate, Columbia policemen say that he was going too fast, for the limit here is only fifteen miles. While he proved faster than the police Friday night they arrested him Saturday, and booked him to appear in police court this morning under personal bond of $200.

Stephens pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs in the police court and $50 and costs in the justice court.

A. F. Stephens, started from Kansas City last Thursday in his six-cylinder car. He stopped overnight en route and arrived here Friday.

When policemen attempted to arrest him on Broadway he did not stop, later asserting that he was out of earshot and did not hear the officers' calls. He blames the appearance of the car. It is stripped down to make it as light as possible and looks more like a racer than a touring car. He thinks it looked as though he was going faster than he really was.

When Stephens failed to stop for the police they supposed that he was a tourist following the cross state highway and telephone to Rochepot authorities to head him off there. At the end of several hours word was received that he had not arrived there.

Saturday afternoon he was again seen in Columbia but was not arrested. By night, however, the police had word of his whereabouts and Deputy Sheriff Sapp and Policemen Rowland and Beasley went to his brother's home, seven miles south of Centralia, for him, making the arrest about 11 o'clock. His brother's name is John Stephens.

Missouri statutes provide a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $100 for exceeding the speed limit and Columbia regulations provide not less than $5 nor more than $50 fine for the same offense.
